

CHRONUS DRACONUM

Baronial Missive

Greetings unto the Populace of SunDragon,

*As We move forward into the Summer months,
We begin to ponder retirement from the Baronial Thrones. We find ourselves looking back at the past 2 years and remembering so many fond moments full of joy and happiness. The Barony has grown and shown the Kingdom how amazing we are in Fighting Prowess, Artistic Talent, and Selfless Service. Much like proud parents, We revel positive recognition each of you receive. We watch you grow and teach others. The pride We feel fills Our hearts to overflowing. As We reflect on the wonder that is the Barony of SunDragon,
We have found Ourselves pondering part of a very well
-known song from the Wizard of Oz:*

*"Somewhere over the rainbow Skies are blue,
And the dreams that you dare to dream Really do come true."*

*All of us are lucky enough to live under those Atenveldt blue skies and see our dreams come true.
Take a moment at the next event to look for the rainbow and revel in the magic it creates for each and every one of us.*

Vivat the Dream!

EXCHEQUER WANTED

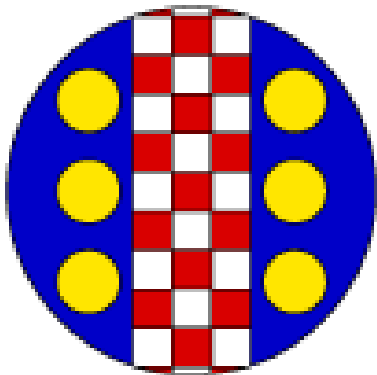

Our current Exchequer, Lady Emma Makeblise, will step down August 1st, 2016.

Requirements to become the new exchequer you must:

- ♦ Hold a current SCA membership
- ♦ Have reliable and regular access to computer and internet
- ♦ Able to use Excel (Microsoft)
- ♦ Meet monthly deadlines
- ♦ Attend monthly baronial business meetings (first Monday each month)
- ♦ Compute using basic math skills

Please contact Lady Emma if you have questions about this position.

If you wish to apply for the position please send a letter of intent to all the following: Baroness and Baron sundragoncoronet@atenveldt.org; Seneschal sundragonseneschal@atenveldt.org ; Exchequer sjackskeller@gmail.com

See pages 11-12 for additional open positions in the Barony!!! More hands make light work!

GROUP VS. PAGE– ALL THE FACEBOOK STUFF

~ LADY KANDACE VAN DE LIBEL, BSD SOCIAL MEDIA OFFICER

If you use Facebook, you probably noticed that in addition to our Barony's private (closed) Group (<https://www.facebook.com/groups/BaronyofSunDragon/>) there is also a public Page (<https://www.facebook.com/Barony-of-SunDragon-1699757113625406/>). Please "Like" the Page if you have not done so– numbers are good for us!

The powers that be (SCA, Inc.) requested that lands within the kingdoms have public pages so that new populace members would have an easier time finding us. In a closed group many things cannot be shared easily with non-members of the said group, they also could not be tagged to view information.

I encourage you to maintain your ties with the FB Group; I will continue to post the Chronus Draconum and other files there. This ability is not a feature found on the Page. If you like sharing photos and communicating with the populace via the Group please continue to do so since the Page does not allow such communication. Please know that if you comment on an entry in the Page, a dialogue can continue but you cannot originate your own conversation on the Page like you can in the Group.

The baronial level event invites (which I hope you find useful) will now be made through the Page; however, I will post or share the event link in the Group. If you have questions you are able to message the administrators of the Page. You are also welcome to post questions in the Group or by using the email address listed in the Regnum at the end of this Chronus document.

In case you were wondering, our Yahoo! Group is also running; any information and content that you receive via it is continuing as it has been.

You may contact me via email kandacevandelibel@gmail.com if you have further questions regarding our communication media.

Yours In Service,

Lady Kandace

Dragon On Ice by m'Lord Langdon Kennedy (May 28, 2012)

"This is shocking. A dragon of all things in my land of ice and snow." said the Frost King in amazement. The Frost King was the king of the snowmen. Though for many the word snowman may make them think of cute stacked balls of snow with carrot noses and stick hands these snowmen were very different. In the land that the Frost King ruled, he and the other snowmen were big, burly creatures with arms and legs. Their skeletons, claws and teeth and spikes were made of ice while the rest of the body was made of a heavy snow. "What could possibly make a lizard like you risk his life here? The cold should have killed you long before my guards caught you. Fortunately we did have the decency to provide you with blankets despite the fact you broke into my palace."

"I needed an audience with you no matter what Your Highness." the dragon said to the Frost King while piled under blankets. The dragon was surprised he wasn't dead. He had to use all his fire breath and every last bit of his strength to get this far. He figured that if they did not have these blankets for guests from the warmer worlds, as the snowmen and other residents of this ice world they lived in did not use them. To the dragon sides were two guards, though they were completely unnecessary, as the dragon couldn't lift a claw.

"And what do you need an audience with me for?" the Frost King leaned forward from his throne. "What could a dragon a creature that breaths fire possibly want from me, the Frost King?"

"I want to ask of you a favor Your Highness." the dragon then bowed his head as much as he could while mostly piled under the blankets, "I want some of the White Elixir."

"The White Elixir? What use could that have to you? The White Elixir cures sickness caused by magic and dragons like you are immune to magic spells." The Frost King then laughed, "Don't tell me you plan to sell it. Because there are much more practical ways to make money than this."

"No I won't be selling it Your Highness." the dragon said as he continued to bow his head.

"Then what could you possibly use it for?" the Frost King asked with a puzzled expression on his snowy face.

"To cure a sickness in a human who has been cursed with a sickness by a vile witch." the dragon told him. His body was starting to regain a little strength. Perhaps he could soon lift his head enough to make eye contact with the Frost King.

"But you dragons hate humans. Their knights kill you or enslave you to ride you putting you in stables like common horses. They even have the audacity to call it 'taming' yet you want to help one?" the Frost King, if he could with his snowy hands, would have pinched himself to check if he was in a dream.

“Not all humans are the same as I have learned. I once fell ill and a human tended to me. The illness rendered me unable to defend myself and she knew as soon as I was well I could very well as killed her yet she healed me anyway. She was educated as well and knew what herbs were needed to cure me and she climbed a nearby mountain, risking her life there to retrieve them for me. And in the end I was cured.”

“And you became like family and now you are trying to cure her as she cured you.” the Frost King said finishing the dragon's story. “Your story's so sweet it sounds like my grandma's reading me a fairy tale. I wouldn't believe it if I wasn't seeing you nearly dying in my throne room. So ironic, a dragon working to save a human. I'm moved. I will give you your White Elixer under one condition, you bring the human to me. I will also give you two Snow Charms so you two may endure the cold here with little difficulty.”

“Understood Your Highness.” the dragon said. He looked the Frost King in the eyes. “Thank you so very much.”

And so a month passed. The Frost King grew impatient and on the day he was about to send out his soldiers to find the dragon on suspicion of lying the dragon arrived with the human.

“I am sorry for the wait Your Highness, but it took me a very long time to fly to Swamplands of Woe to drop the witch off for her permanent vacation from anyone she could hurt and get back.” the dragon bowed.

The human bowed as well. She had black skin the same color as the smoke of a dragon's breath while her hair was a deep dark brown like the wood on a stained antique stool. She was educated and wealthy but wore plain, practical clothing. She always wore a bright red. The Frost King liked the color, it was something he hadn't seen often in his kingdom of snow.

“This reminds me of how long it's been since I've seen a human. What's your name girl?” the Frost King asked.

“Samantha.” she responded.

“I really can't believe I'm actually seeing it. I actually can't believe I'm seeing it. I suppose it is time I announce my plan.” the Frost King said with a smile. His smile contained rows of big, pointy teeth made of icicles.

“Plan?” the dragon and human asked in unison.

“If you two can be friendly then I suppose that us creatures of ice can be friendly with you dragons, creatures of fire. Dragons and sympathetic humans will now be able to seek refuge in my land of ice to escape the knights attempting to kill and enslave them.”

“What...?” Samantha looked at him puzzled.

“Yes I am aware I will need many, many, many more blankets.” the Frost King sighed.

SunDragon's A&S Championship and Showcase in July!

Once again our barony will combine artistic forces with our cousins in the Barony of Granite Mountain as they host their Collegium while we will host a showcase of the arts while also receiving our new Arts & Sciences Champion!

A&S Showcase: Everyone is welcome to enter! There will be a separate youth division. Documentation is not required for the mature or youth divisions, but it is nice to see and it is good practice. In each division, a winner will be determined based on a Peer votes and another winner based on populace votes. Multiple entries are welcomed but they must be separate from the SunDragon A&S Championship competitions, so please make something extra!

SunDragon's Baronial Youth Arts & Sciences Championship will be hosted by our current SunDragon Youth A&S Champion, m'Lady Grace of SunDragon. Youths should create two projects with documentation for each. An entry in this competition cannot be entered into the showcase, so make and bring an extra item!

SunDragon's Baronial Arts & Sciences Championship will be hosted by our current SunDragon A&S Champion, Lady Kandace Van de Libel. This is an excellent way for you to be a part of promoting A&S in the Barony and Kingdom! All ability levels can compete! Your challenge is to produce three entries from three different categories displaying your range of study & creativity. One of your items should be a largess gift that will be given to the Baroness & Baron of SunDragon at the end of the day. Emphasis of this largess entry will be placed on the quality rather than quantity (e.g., one gift of involved metal work VS a set of three handcrafted essential oils). All three entries will need your best attempt at documentation for each & Kingdom A&S forms will be used to judge the entries. The Baroness and Baron, judges, and populace may have a few questions about your projects so please be prepared. For further information; such as: "what's a category?" or "how do I document?," please email Lady Kandace at kandacevandelibel@gmail.com Please declare your categories to Kandace using the same email address or in person no later than June 30th, 2016. An entry in this competition cannot be entered into the showcase.
